

ALMA MATER STUDIORUM
UNIVERSITÀ DI BOLOGNA
DIPARTIMENTO DI SCIENZE GIURIDICHE

BBS
MULTIPLYING OPPORTUNITIES

WAGE SETTING REGULATION AFTER THE PANDEMIC

Friday, 19nd June 2020 – 3.00 p.m.
Bologna Business School - Via Microsoft Teams

In the context of this sudden exogenous crisis, wage-setting regulation can play the role as stabilizer of demand. In the short and medium run, minimum wage policies could be able to counteract income volatility and preventing workers from ending up in in-work poverty. However, the reality it is not so clear. Who should set the minimum wage? Statutory minimum wage? What is the role of Social partners? So many questions are still pending, many of them were already known before the pandemic and others will derive from the steadily changing situation.

Preliminary remarks

Alberto Pizzoferrato Professor of Labour Law, University of Bologna

The European Union

Filip Dorsemont Professor of Labor Law, Université Catholique De Louvain

Introduced by Lidia Mascio Participant in the Master in HR & Organization

The Italian State of Art

Michel Martone Professor of Labor Law, University of Rome “La Sapienza”

Introduced by Pietro Piancastelli Participant in the Master in HR & Organization

Opening up the discussion

In-work poverty and the new unemployment crisis

Leonardo Battista PhD Candidate in European Law, University of Bologna

The event will be the opportunity to present Michel Martone's Book
“A che prezzo. L'emergenza retributiva tra riforma della contrattazione collettiva e salario minimo legale”, Luiss University Press, December 2019.

To participate in the event click on this link

www.bbs.unibo.it